

The 2022 Call for Papers for the OSHA Conference is now open!

The Oregon Speech-Language and Hearing Association (OSHA) is excited to present our 2022 Fall Conference theme “Empowering the Leader Within through Inclusion and Connection” that reflects our continued commitment to addressing important issues in our field and within society. In addition to our professional development content at the conference, we look forward to recognizing and celebrating the research, clinical work, and advocacy of our colleagues through our OSHA honors and awards. We encourage you to consider nominating a colleague for one of OSHA awards on our website: OSHA Honors and Awards - Nominate a Colleague.

Presentations on a variety of topics are welcomed and will be considered. We are particularly interested in presentations that align with our “Empowering the Leader Within” theme. Researchers, professionals, clinicians, and students are all encouraged to submit proposals to share their knowledge and experiences.

Call for Papers Instructions

Please see the OSHA Fall Conference - Call for Papers website for complete instructions on submitting a proposal. A complete proposal will include biographies and disclosures for each presenter. In addition, all presenters must be registered for the conference on the day of their presentation. Finally, please note that presenters may not use their session to promote or sell products or services.

Session Formats

Our conference will once again be 100% virtual this year. You may submit proposals for the following types of presentations:

- 1-hour oral sessions (live, virtual)
- 1.5-hour oral sessions (live, virtual)
- 2-hour oral sessions on clinical supervision (live, virtual)
- Poster Presentations (30 minutes; 15-minute pre-recorded presentation with digital poster and 15-minute live, virtual Q&A period) (virtual)
